OFFICE Los Angeles

Allison Muraoka has more than 30 years of experience in all aspects of law firm administration, with an emphasis on human resources, information technology, and secretarial management.

As Larson's director of administration, Allison oversees the daily operations of the firm and contributes to strategic decisions regarding administrative systems, staffing, and procedures.

Most recently, Allison served as the Attorney Support Manager for the downtown Los Angeles and Century City offices of Latham & Watkins. In that role, she managed secretarial operations and participated in projects with both a U.S. and global scope.

Allison originally hails from southeastern Washington state and relocated to Southern California to attend college. She has been a happy SoCal resident ever since. For Allison, the best things in life are opera, baseball, and good California wine.
