OFFICE Los Angeles

Christine Chung's practice focuses on complex civil litigation and white-collar defense.

Prior to joining Larson, Christine served as a judicial law clerk to the Hon. Virginia A. Phillips, Senior U.S. District Judge in the Central District of California.

In addition to her clerkship, Christine boasts extensive experience working in the federal courts, having served eleven years as a courtroom deputy clerk to United States District Judges in the Central District of California, including serving as clerk to the late Hon. Manuel L. Real and to the Hon. Virginia A. Phillips. For more than a decade, she managed hundreds of district court cases at all stages of litigation at the trial court level, and managed courtroom proceedings for law and motion, as well as bench and jury trials. Before serving in the U.S. District Court, Christine worked as a court services assistant in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles.

Christine received her J.D. from Loyola Law School where she served on the Loyola of Los Angeles International and Comparative Law Review and participated in the Inter-American Court of Human Rights Project. While in law school, she received first honors in trial advocacy.

Outside of the office, Christine enjoys spending time with her husband, traveling, and snowboarding.
