OFFICE Washington, D.C.

Kathryane Foster is a trial paralegal with 35 years' experience in white collar practice, commercial litigation, and intellectual property litigation.

One of the original members of Larson LLP, she draws from a depth of experience in the litigation departments of the nation's top law firms.

Kathryane assists in all aspects of the discovery process, including preparation for witness and expert depositions, document productions and e-discovery, fact investigation and research, appellate practice, and trial preparation. In the firm's highly-publicized corruption case, People v. Paul Biane et al., she provided integral support to her attorneys and clients during the successful 10-month trial.

Kathryane previously worked in Larson's Los Angeles office. In her spare time, she relaxes by reading, traveling, playing the guitar and painting.
